

WAINWRIGHT SOON TO QUIT THE NAVY

Famous Commander of the Gloucester at Santiago Close to Age Limit.

INCIDENTS IN HIS CAREER

On the Old Battleship Maine With Sigsbee When She Was Sunk in Havana Harbor.

New York, December 4.—When the great battleship Maine steamed in review before President Taft on its way to sea a few weeks ago, the President stood with bared head on the bridge of the naval yacht Mayflower. At his side was Rear-Admiral Richard Wainwright, aid for operations in the Navy Department, one of the greatest fighters, best fellows and most beloved officers the service has ever had.

After the review, Admiral Wainwright, happy as a schoolboy over the honor showing made by the fleet, stood in the ward room of the Mayflower and talked of the navy to the service of which he has devoted forty of the best years of his life. Some one referred to the fact that he would soon celebrate his sixty-second birthday, upon which date, by act of Congress, naval officers are retired from active service. The admiral will be sixty-two years old a week from next Sunday.

"It will be with a sense of the deepest regret that I shall leave the service," said the admiral, musingly, a note of sadness in his voice. "The navy has been my life. I don't know what I shall do, maybe I'll go to Europe and look around a bit."

There is little doubt but that Admiral Wainwright could continue to hold the post he now adorns even after his legal retirement, but he will not permit that.

"The Aid for Operations," he said, "is no place for a retired officer, and when I go to the retired list somebody else must relieve me."

The line and staff will sincerely regret the retirement of their comrade of so many years. They are not likely soon to forget some of his deeds in the navy. It was he who commanded the Gloucester at the battle of Santiago, and to him, Admiral Cervera, the defeated commander-in-chief of the Spanish fleet, surrendered. He was executive officer of the old battleship Maine when she was sunk in Havana harbor on the night of February 15, 1898, and as he saw the waters close over her shattered hull is said to have registered a vow that "the Maine will be avenged."

Admiral Wainwright comes of a famous naval family, and fortunately for the service, the name will remain on the active list after he goes into retirement, for his son, Lieutenant "Dick" Wainwright, is much like his famous father, and inherits his affection for the service afloat.

The admiral is the second Richard

The Home Doctor

Cure for Coughs and Colds.

One and one-half ounces Balm of Gilead buds, one pound bruised rock candy, one pint Duffy's pure malt whiskey. (We recommend Duffy's on account of its purity and known medicinal value.) Put aside with occasional stirring until the rock candy is dissolved, then strain. Dose: For adults, one tablespoonful every hour; if the condition is acute, every half hour; for children over ten, a teaspoonful every hour; for children under ten, ten drops every hour until decided relief is felt. These simple ingredients, known to every druggist, can easily be secured and readily mixed by any one. Dr. George I. Ross, Canton, Mass., says: "This is vastly superior to the stereotype Rock and Rye of Commerce, and should be called 'Balm of Gilead.'"

Wainwright of the navy, his father having been Commander Richard Wainwright, one of Farragut's most brilliant subordinates. He was in command of the Hartford at the battle of Fort Fisher, in which Admiral Robley D. Evans was killed for life, and where Farragut won one of his greatest victories.

President Lincoln himself appointed the son of the Hartford's commander to Annapolis. The future commander of the Gloucester was a member of the class of 1865, one of his classmates being Seaton Schroeder, one of the famous sailors of the modern navy. Admiral Schroeder married Admiral Wainwright's sister.

The early career of Wainwright was that of an earnest, hard working officer, and it was not until the early nineties that his name began to be heard outside of the service. From 1890 to 1892 he commanded the old Alert, and in 1896 he was ordered to Washington to become chief intelligence officer of the navy.

Two years later, in November, 1899, he was relieved of that duty and ordered to the battleship Maine as executive officer under Captain Charles D. Sigsbee. From that day he became a public, as well as a naval figure of note.

On the night the Maine was blown up in Havana Harbor, Wainwright stood beside Sigsbee on the quarter deck as the vessel was sinking, and it was Wainwright who issued the order to lower the lifeboats in which the survivors of the crew escaped. From the beginning Admiral Wainwright was one of those who believed the Maine was not blown up by accident and none was more impatient than he for a chance to avenge the death of the 256 officers, bluejackets and marines who went to their death in the battleship.

In the interval between the blowing up of the Maine and the declaration of war against Spain, Wainwright remained on board one of the American ships that were in the harbor, and during the seven weeks that the Sampson court of inquiry was in session he never set foot in Havana.

During the weeks that the wreckers of the battleship Maine searched the harbor and divers worked on the hull of the Maine, Wainwright remained at Havana. At last the wreckers gave up and one by one the officers were ordered to Washington. It was known then that war was coming.

GIVE UP ALL HOPE OF SAVING COLLIER

Norfolk, December 4.—Naval officials practically gave up all hope of saving the collier Sterling, which was run ashore at Cape Henry yesterday morning after being in collision with the American steamer Dorothy.

All day to-day the Sterling was pounded by high seas, a forty-mile gale from the northwest driving big waves all over the helpless vessel. Three of the five navy tug boats sent to aid the stranded vessel were forced to seek shelter in Hampton Roads, and only the Mohawk remained with the Sterling.

It is said that fifty men of the fifty-two on the Sterling were transferred to the tug. Naval men say the Sterling lies on a dangerous beach, and unless the weather is more favorable to-morrow the vessel will prove a total loss. Another effort will be made to float the Sterling to-morrow.

COLORADO FOR TAFT

Guggenheim Doesn't Think the State's Delegation Will Go to La Follette.

Washington, D. C., December 4.—Senator Simon Guggenheim, of Colorado, to-day called upon the President, and was told how much Mr. Taft regretted the coming retirement from active politics of the Colorado legislator.

After the conference the Senator talked frankly about the matter to-day. He said that his decision not to run again had been reached at least a year ago.

"I simply felt," said the Senator, "that it was now time that I again devoted myself strictly to business. I have for six years almost neglected the interests that should have had my attention."

"How soon do you expect to go to Colorado again?" the Senator was asked.

"I am now figuring on going to Denver during the Christmas holidays. I may not, of course, get away, but I now expect to."

The Senator was also asked if he believed the delegation in the next national convention would support the President or La Follette.

"The delegation, in my judgment," he answered, "will be for Mr. Taft. The President has many friends in Colorado. Not only that, but I still believe that Colorado will go Republican in the next national election."

Senator Guggenheim has not opened his Washington house for the winter, and does not know when he will do so.

OFFICERS OF THE IDAHO INSIST ON AN APOLOGY

Football Team Searched for Articles Missing From the Steamship Priscilla.

Philadelphia, December 4.—Officers of the United States battleship Idaho, have signed a letter requesting the Secretary of the Navy to demand a public apology from the officials of the Fall River Steamship Company for endeavoring to brand officers and men of the Idaho as "petty thieves."

This action is the result of a searching of the members of the football team of the Idaho and Edwin Robertson and Paymaster Holt underwent November 15 at the instance of the captain of the Fall River Line steamer Priscilla. The latter took place after the officers of the Priscilla had made the assertion that had been made disappeared from the staterooms which the officers of the football team and the two officers in charge occupied while the party was returning from Newport.

The members of the team and the officers willingly submitted to the search, which proved unavailing.

Recently Captain Howard, in command of the Idaho, received a letter from the Fall River Line officials, in which the charge was renewed. The letter was immediately answered this letter. What he said is not known, but the original letter and the answer were entered on the official records of the Idaho.

Lieutenant-Commander Cook, in charge of the Idaho last night, in the absence of Captain Howard, declared that the incident was closed. He also refused to read the contents of the Fall River Line's letter, or the letter of Captain Howard's reply. The officers of the Idaho take the stand that the integrity and honor of the navy have been assailed and that the Fall River Line officials should be made to respect the navy uniform.

No Place for Bulls.

Joseph Jackson, colored, 417 West Leigh street yesterday morning, declared that in the Second Nation. Unfortunately, the Second Nation has no place in which bulls may be stabled. The house, he said, is over and let them go to the Monroe stable.

CLEAN PREAST WILL BE MADE BY McNAMARAS

Robert F. Bain made to the deputy attorney, that at the instance of Bert H. Franklin, investigator for the defense, charged with bribery, he persuaded her husband, the first McNamara juror to be sworn, to accept $4,000 if he would make sure that a verdict of guilty would not be given, and that $400 of this money would be paid as a retainer.

"I can't get back my honor," she said her aged husband declared when it was suggested that he could return the money. Bain is a Civil War veteran.

A continuance was granted the defense in the case of Franklin to-day. Governor Henry T. Gage, Franklin's counsel, made a speech, expressing his hope that within a week the district attorney would find the charges against Franklin baseless.

Franklin to-day denied rumors that he had confessed. The outcome of his case will determine the fate of men whose lives to-night hang on scales that a hair may tilt, according to persons in a position to know.

Complicated by to-morrow's election, in which Job Harriman, of counsel for the McNamara defense, is the Socialist candidate for Mayor, and Joseph Scott, of counsel for the defense, is running for membership of the School Board, of which he is now president, Los Angeles was swept to-night with conflicting assertions and declarations. It was rumored that Attorney Darrow was under arrest. The rumor was traced to the fact that he and Fredericks were seen conversing together in the streets. It was also rumored that Harriman was arrested. He was found at the Socialist headquarters, and no one found any particular source for this false report. A hundred other reports swirled about the jail where the McNamaras waited the day which probably will see them on the way to the penitentiary.

Malcolm McLaren, special representative in Los Angeles of the detective agency which brought about the arrest of the McNamaras, said he would Federal investigation of alleged dynamiting conspiracies to be begun within fifteen days.

That the McNamaras would remain here to appear before this grand jury was one of the rumors to-night, but another that seemed more trustworthy said they would be taken to the penitentiary in a special train immediately after sentence. What sentence would be imposed upon the McNamaras only Judge Bordwell knew to-night. Many telegrams have been received from Eastern organizations, mostly labor bodies, urging the extreme penalty for both men. None of these has been read by the judge.

The extreme penalty for James B. McNamara's death and that for his brother life imprisonment. It was not officially established to-night whether District Attorney Fredericks would ask for clemency.

Secretary Nockels, of the Chicago Federation of Labor, to-day reiterated reports to the contrary, that he did not come here to represent Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation.

"That is a lie," he said. "You keep Gompers informed of the progress of the negotiations" was asked.

"I did not," said Nockels.

Urges Full Confession.

New York, December 4.—In behalf of the National Erectors' Association, which employed William J. Burns to run down the perpetrators of the Los Angeles dynamite outrages, Walter Drew, as counsel, issued a statement here to-night urging that the McNamaras "make a frank and full confession."

Mr. Drew says among other things that he doubts the sincerity of labor's demand for a retrial, and that he believes the dynamite outrages were planned rather than those who take this attitude have an ulterior motive.

Mr. Drew issued the statement in the form of a telegram to J. B. Fredericks, district attorney, at Los Angeles. The telegram reads:

"I note the many statements from labor leaders repudiating the McNamaras and demanding the infliction upon them of the extreme penalty of the law. As you know, I am counsel for a group of employers who have been among the chief sufferers at the hands of the men, and am, perhaps, as familiar as any one with the series of dynamite outrages in which they took part. I deem it my duty to say to you, in order that in your discretion you may advise the court:

"First—No human life has been destroyed by any other explosion traceable to these men, nor do I know of any such explosion which was apparently planned with the purpose of taking life, though in some instances a disregard of such possible consequences was shown.

"Second—The National Erectors' Association does not join in the demand for the death penalty for the younger McNamaras, believing him the weak consequence of the doctrines taught by men who now repudiate him. We believe the punishment of both these brothers secondary in importance to the conviction of the men behind them, and we sincerely hope they will take advantage of the opportunity now presented to perform a signal service for society by making full and frank confession.

"Third—Inasmuch as some of the demands for extreme punishment come from men who may have known of the guilt of the McNamaras, and of whom at least I know to be implicated in several outrages with them, I sincerely doubt that such demands are being made with the sole desire of aiding the ends of full and complete justice.

"WALTER DREW."

Mr. Drew reiterated this evening that he believed that between twenty and thirty labor leaders would be indicted as the result of the Federal investigation now under way at Indianapolis, and said the ramifications of the coterie would extend from Boston to the Pacific coast.

Fund Paid to McNamara.

Cleveland, Ohio, December 4.—"It is perfectly true that the executive council of the Iron Workers' Union voted a monthly fund of $1,000 to be paid to John J. McNamara. There is plenty of evidence to substantiate the charge that this money was knowingly voted for the purpose of paying it to James B. McNamara and Ortie McNamara, and that it was used by them in their dynamiting operations."

That was the statement made by Detective William J. Burns, who arrived here to-night from Akron, Ohio.

That he is going after "the men higher up," and a criticism of President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, were points emphatically emphasized by Mr. Burns.

Mr. Burns spent the day in Akron investigating the explosion of the Berger Iron Works, in July, 1910.

"We are going after the men back of the McNamaras," said Mr. Burns, and the investigation will be pushed till we bring to justice the men really responsible for the dynamiting outrages over the country.

Gompers Declared Unsafe.

Indianapolis, Ind., December 4.—"An earnest effort will be made by the government to bring to justice every man who was involved in the most damnable conspiracy ever entered into in this country," said United States District Attorney Charles W. Miller to-day, in discussing the Federal grand jury's investigation of dynamiting operations of the McNamara brothers and others alleged to have been associated with them.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was characterized as an "unsafe leader" by Mr. Miller, who said it was time for labor leaders "who stand on honest ground" to take charge of labor organizations.

The investigation now being made by the government will be thorough and complete, and an earnest effort will be made to bring to justice every man who was involved in the most damnable conspiracy ever entered into in this country," said Mr. Miller. "The people are entitled to know all the facts, and all the facts will be known in the proper time. It is not a part of my duty to discuss details, and I will not do so. The time is at hand for me to act.

"There is no occasion for any person to be misled by false issues. This is not a contest between capital and labor. Capitalists and laborers who believe in law and order must and will stand together. Such unsafe leaders as Gompers must be retired. Let men who stand on honest ground come to the front. The destruction of life and property must cease. Acts of force and violence must cease, and all violators must be brought to justice."

Willing to Aid Investigation.

New York, December 4.—Samuel Gompers was asked to-night to what extent the American Federation of Labor, of which he is president, would aid in further investigation by the government of labor troubles.

"Our books and such records as we have will be open to the Federal grand jury, investigating committee or any responsible person of decent character and integrity. We have nothing to withhold," he replied, and for what purposes?" a reporter asked.

Mr. Gompers replied with some heat: "I tried to make my statement as specific and accurate as possible."

Asked if he knew whether he was under surveillance, Mr. Gompers answered: "I know I am. Two of Burns' men have been following me since my arrival in New York last Saturday night. I go and come openly and I have nothing to conceal. I intend to remain here till Tuesday and then go to Washington."

Mr. Gompers made a positive denial of a statement credited to Detective William J. Burns that Clarence Darrow was present at the conference in Indianapolis in June.

"It is absolutely false," said Mr. Gompers. "There were forty labor leaders from all over the country present to discuss plans for raising money for the defense of the McNamaras. There was no intimation of their guilt given out at the meeting."

The labor leader indignantly asserted that he did not feel called upon to reply, when a reporter asked him suggestively if he had any expectation of giving up the leadership of the labor organization in the near future. He added: "I was lately unanimously elected president of the American Federation of Labor."

GIVES CONSENT TO ARMISTICE

Prospects Now Good for Peaceful Settlement of China's Troubles.

London, December 4.—The Peking correspondent of the Times says that Yuan Shih Kai has given his consent to the extension of the armistice for a fortnight for the whole area of military operations, including Hankow. The premier engages to dispatch no more troops from Peking, and has already countermanded his order dispatching troops to Hankow.

It is reported on excellent authority that the regent, who has been the chief stumbling block to a compromise, will abdicate. Altogether, adds the correspondent, there is a reasonable prospect of a peaceful settlement.

Report Confirmed.

Washington, December 4.—The report that some Japanese are taking part in the Chinese rebellion appears to be confirmed by a cablegram received at the state department to-day from the American consul at Mukden, Manchuria, stating that two Japanese have been arrested there for throwing bombs. It is assumed that the men were acting as individuals and without any connection with the Japanese government.

Hanyang Bombaraded.

San Francisco, Cal., December 4.—A cable from Shanghai stating that the revolutionaries have taken Hanyang, was received to-day by the Chinese Free Press. Hanyang is the most important manufacturing city of China. The great government arsenal and the works are situated there. The rebels evacuated the city several days ago.

Sudden Death

Often Caused by Acute Indigestion, Sufferers Should Carry Mi-o-na.

If after eating you feel bloated, have much heaviness and your stomach seems chock full of misery, it's because your food is not digesting, but is fermenting in the stomach, causing poisonous gases to form.

Many times these gases bloat the stomach so much that it presses on the heart and causes death. People who suffer from acute indigestion should keep a box of MI-O-NA stomach tablets constantly on hand. Take two after a hearty meal and distress will never appear. MI-O-NA is guaranteed to end indigestion and all diseases caused by upset stomach or money back. 50 cents at Tragle Co.'s and druggists everywhere.

MI-O-NA stomach tablets are best for sourness, belching of food, heartburn, bloating and heaviness. They relieve in five minutes. But best of all, they entirely banish indigestion if taken regularly for a few days. Test sample free from Booth's MI-O-NA, Buffalo, N. Y.
